The rumor that the contract for first 115 miles of the eastern extension of the California Pacific Railroad from Davisville northward had been let though not correct in detail has undoubtedly this much of truth in it, that it is under control who will have it as soon as surveys now being made are so far completed as to permit of the specifications being made out

The case of the boys, Matthew Harrington and T C Ryan, charged with murder of a Chinaman on Fourth street was examined before Judge Sawyer to day The evidence was that both boys were hitting the deceased and on being arrested each charged the other with giving the fatal blow admitting at the same time that they hit him with redwood boards Mr Louderback offered to prove by a Chinaman and woman that the boys went into the cigar store owned by the deceased and demanded cigars free which being refused they smashed the clock and other articles in the room and when the Chinaman chased them out they turned about and killed him Judge Sawyer declined to receive Chinese testimony but held Harrington on charge of murder in the second degree with bail fixed at $10 000 and Ryan to assault and battery at $1 000

EXCURSION TO SOUTHERN OREGON

THE OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD—HALSEY—HARRISBURG—LANCASTER—[illegible]—THE WALLAMET VALLEY—ITS [illegible]

A journey to Southern Oregon is usually rendered tolerable at this season by agreeable weather, improved roads, and the scenery in its liveliest colors But the weather this spring has been cold and wet, the roads almost impassable leaving the beautiful scenery alone in its glory

The railroad transports the traveler in a few hours to

the temporary terminus He is transported also in thought at the agreeable escape from the former tedious modes of conveyance

Halsey is a city in embryo yet A few rude structures have been put together but preparations are visible for the erection of permanent buildings The site is on the open prairie the soil is good the air fresh and free and the water abundant and very convenient

At Halsey the mails and passengers were transferred to hacks to meet the stage on the west side of the Wallamet Passing through fields and roads, and in view of fine farms, orchards and dwellings the conveyances reach

HARRISBURG

This town has a commanding situation on the east bank of the Wallamet Its elevated position argues well for health and drainage, and the town has an agreeable air to the eye of a stranger

The railroad graders are rapidly approaching this place With renewed energy this great work is being pushed forward It will be compelled to pause a while to await the erection of bridges across the Wallamet river and adjacent sloughs between Harrisburg and Lancaster

An old gentleman among the passengers, was looking for farms for a large family, which he had brought from one of the older States They came from Sacramento in private conveyances and had found nothing which satisfied them until after they had crossed the Siskiyou mountains He was a shrewd observer, and manifested much practical information on a variety of subjects He affirmed that the great hindrance to the rapid development of this entire coast is the rejection of the legal tender currency He maintained his position by facts and arguments which the advocates of hard money on the stage failed to confute He argues that both self interest and patriotism find expression in the use of greenbacks This currency is working its way into California Oregon should not be the last State to adopt it

LANCASTER

Is pleasantly situated on the west bank of the river It has an quiet air as if it were waiting for something It will not wait long Its site is will soon resound with the locomotive s whistle

Passing many splendid farms, and open lands destined to speedy occupation, we reached

at dark This place named after the daughter of its founder, as the story goes is surpassed in beauty of site and surroundings by few in Oregon It is well endowed with schools and churches A busy and thriving population awaits the advent of the railroad Young Mr Hudson who has command of an engineering corps, reports favorably of the railroad work and prospects in this region Eugene City will probably become a railroad center at no distant day

A few hours of sleep prepared the travelers for the worst portion of the road, which must be encountered the next day Before daylight the journey is resumed A wide valley recedes to mountain ranges intersected with conical hills between which other valleys open into the great plain of the Wallamet

But we now approach the head waters of that river It begins in a lakelet fringed with perennial verdure in whose transparent depths the near and distant hills are mirrored From the recesses of the forest opposite come a silvery rivulet plunging down the declivity and you imagine that it finds entrance into the little lake But watch it narrowly and you will discover that it turns abruptly towards the south and pursues its way into the neighboring defile This is Pass creek one of the affluents of the Umpqua river and this is the divide between the two valleys

Now turn to the North and behold a scene of extraordinary beauty, fertility and salubriousness Its busy towns and its widely separated farms invite population to share their advantages And it requires no prophet s ken to foresee innumerable homes dotting its surface diversified with cities yet unnamed the theaters of varied industries, the abodes of plenty and prosperity On the right stretches the Cascade mountains on the left, the Coast range among whose foot hills are large tracts of unoccupied lands, part being suitable for tillage and part for grazing Some of these lands widen into small valleys, the fat soil of which has never been disturbed by the plow The sides and summits of these mountains are covered with valuable timber and many a torrent plunges from perennial springs, to water the plains below and swell the volume of the Wallamet river High banks and swift currents betray numerous water powers destined to turn the machinery for working up the staples which these hills and valleys are capable of producing in unstinted abundance, The curling fleece each fibre of which is pressed into silky fineness and length by the thickness of the whole plantation like a forest of young firs shall find choice sustenance on these hills cattle shall crop the sweetest herbage along the mountain sides and summits, these plains shall furnish the varied staples both of subsistence and manufacture, these mountains shall pour forth the useful and the precious ores, and the forest yield its timber

We already have the beginning of mechanical and manufacturing industries and their skill is proved by their success but Oregon demands a large increase of capital and skilled labor to turn her rich and varied resources to the best account upon the very field of their production A L L

POLITICAL NOTES

It is easy to say that Jeff Davis is politically dead, but when the leading influential citizens of Georgia and South Carolina flock around him and applaud his utterances what then?

The Kentucky Democrats had one Union man on their State ticket but they have since counted him out, and now every man of them from the candidate for Governor to the nominee for Register was a Confederate officer

The Democratic Central Committee of North Carolina have published an address advising a full vote for the proposed Constitutional Convention and urging the Democrats to carefully abstain from all violence and to make extraordinary effort [illegible]

"Filled with the [illegible] and [illegible] of their inferiority [illegible] justice of your pretensions and conscious of broken covenants and a violated Constitution, they [the loyal men of the North] mistrust every movement and tremble with fear when they think that right may again prevail "—Jefferson Davis, at Augusta, Ga, May 25 1871

CURRENT NOTES

I am not of those who accept the situation I accept nothing —Jefferson Davis at Atlanta Ga , May 27, 1871

New Yorkers are trying to make people believe that they have a woman who has been a voluntary prisoner in the Tombs for over thirty years, in order that she might be compelled to live a sober life

A San Francisco paper says The importation of men's Eastern made boots—chiefly [illegible] of Philadelphia—has been reduced one third or more within two years, on account [illegible] goods manufactured in this city The [illegible] of Eastern made women's gaiters has [illegible] fully 50 per cent within the same time the home article being preferred, both as to price and quality, to the gaiters of Atlantic manufacture

Fortune again shows her fickleness in the fate of Jecker, the Mexican banker [illegible] was shot by the Paris Communists Jecker [illegible] Swiss by birth, had transactions [illegible] and secured a quantity of [illegible] by that usurper Mexico [illegible] them, and Napoleon III wishing [illegible] his many pretexts for [illegible] Jecker a French citizen and then [illegible] force the fraudulent demand This French citizenship enabled the Communists to arrest the [illegible] banker as a hostage with impunity, and the [illegible] to his miserable death

TUESDAY MORNING JUNE 13 1871

More About the Water Question

It is not our purpose to advocate any particular plan or system for supplying Portland with water Taking it for granted that all citizens are desirous that the city should own and control its water works, and that water should be furnished at cheaper rates than this now supplied at, we merely wish to submit certain facts which may be considered in connection with the problem of obtaining a water supply

In a former article we spoke of the Holly system " This system, we are satisfied is worthy of careful examination by our citizens It may be well to furnish further particulars in regard to it The water works at Binghampton New York, of which we gave a partial description yesterday, seem to us to be constructed on a plan most available for this city The entire cost of those works was $125,000. This amount included fourteen miles of main pipes from four to twelve inches in diameter, and averaging about eight inches in diameter The total cost of running the works is $6 600 per annum Steam power is employed to drive the machinery Fuel with us would cost more than in New York, because coal is obtainable there at low rates. The works at Binghamton are situated two miles from the city The water, taken from great wells, excavated near the bank of the Susquehanna river, flows copiously into the wells through the filter of gravel, rises and falls with the rise and fall of the river and is not affected in the least by the muddy appearance of the river in time of freshets. Water thus supplied is free from insects, reptiles, etc, which are nearly always found in reservoirs

The cost of repairs for these works is trifling The machinery at Binghamton has been running for two years without requiring any expenditure whatever for repairs Sixty two fire hydrants have been placed throughout the city, to which water is supplied at a cost to the city of $50 for each hydrant per annum The necessity for using fire engines no longer exists The water is always found to be in force and quantity in any amount, when needed for extinguishing fires

Machinery of power sufficient to furnish a supply of water for domestic uses and fire protection for a city of 20,000 inhabitants will cost about $40,000 The cost of mains, pipes and putting down the same will depend of course upon the source of supply, distance elevation etc Water is furnished at Binghamton to about one thousand takers, from which the city receives about $11,350 per annum This includes many stores, shops, business houses and manufacturers. Probably there are at present not less than one thousand takers of water in this city, and the rates paid are from two to ten dollars per month for each, which makes the cost of water to citizens of Portland three or four times as great as to citizens of Binghamton

We think it worth while for our city authorities to investigate this system, with a view of its introduction here, in case it is thought to be suited to the wants of the city The sum of $150,000 would be amply sufficient to provide it and would allow the construction of works of a capacity to supply a large increase of population Receipts for water would more than pay interest on the investment, and the saving in the matter of protection against fire could also be made very large

"Democratic" Doctrine

I am not one of those who accept the situation I accept nothing These cant phrases which we hear so much of about accepting the situation, and about our rights having been submitted to the 'arbitrament of the sword' are but excuses of cowards' These be brave words. Of course it is perceived that they come from an undoubted Democratic source In point of fact they emanate from no less a 'Democratic' authority than Jeff. Davis himself

These declarations are from a speech delivered at Atlanta (Ga) a few days since by that staunch upholder of State Sovereignty and Democratic principles generally,—the ex President of that ex Confederacy which was founded on the doctrines of the Democratic party but was overthrown by "Radical" aggression This undoubted Democrat has recently been moving about through the South delivering "Democratic" speeches At last accounts he was at Atlanta, where he entered more fully into his subject than he had done on former occasions His speech may be taken as the reply of the Southern Democrats to the "new departure" in Ohio and Pennsylvania Others may fail in their advocacy of "Democratic principles," but Davis and his friends propose to continue the struggle.

The Republican party of this city having taken its stand against the water monopoly, there are almost infallible indications that the opposition intend to get up a kind of mongrel ticket to be run in the monopoly interest in consideration of receiving the monopoly's support. The Democratic organization of the city is in the hands of those opposed to the interests of the people, and as many of the members of that party as can be controlled by the strikers for the monopoly will be brought up to vote the monopoly ticket

On all sides Democratic doctors disagree Here for instance, is the Herald asserting that the new amendments to the Constitution have not altered the form or enlarged powers of the General Government. And here, too, is the Roseburg Plaindealer saying of the fifteenth amendment that it is 'not properly an amendment but an entire alteration in the character of the Federal Government Hard indeed it is for the Democrat in these times who seeks for light to find it!

The plan of the water monopoly is to run Mr Cree for re-election to the Council for the First Ward Mr Cree is not noted for anything but the studious and obsequious devotion with which he follows Mr Hallock So long as he is in the Council Mr Hallock and his masters can always rely on two votes from the First Ward. Mr. Cree never acts without the signal from his prompter, and when he receives that signal he never fails to act

Jeff Davis is still a "Democrat" A few days since he delivered a speech at Atlanta (Ga) in which he said with true, "Democratic" constancy, "I am not of those who accept the situation I accept nothing" Will the editors of the Democratic papers at Oregon City, Albany, Eugene City Corvallis Roseburg and other places in Oregon, read and be comforted?

Andy Johnson is still a "Democrat" In a speech at Nashville the other day he declared that not another dollar of interest should be paid on the national debt. He proposed a system of gradual repudiation, by which he thought the whole debt could be sponged out in about sixteen years

The State Penitentiary.

The Statesman in the following article sharply criticises the management of the penitentiary

We had the lamentable fact to chronicle the other day that two notorious criminals had escaped from the State Prison in broad day A ladder was made on the premises, within sight and hearing of all hands, packed to the paling wall which surrounds the new prison yard, and coolly mounting upon it one of the prisoners, after walking forty yards on the walk which surmounts the wall—so at least we hear—got down off the palings and palisade and went leisurely off into the woods and has not been discovered or arrested This of itself is enough to condemn any one having charge of the Penitentiary for culpable inefficiency, for this prisoner, whose crime was merely a midnight burglary had not even a shackle on to impede his flight

But that was not the worst discovering that two men were missing the Superintendent seems to have jumped at the conclusion that both had thus escaped, and that Shultz with a twenty pound shackle on his leg had flown like a bird over the high wall and scampered off into the woods He had the fire bells rung and the town two miles distant aroused to search for Shultz. Great rewards were offered for his apprehension, and it was reported that his pursuers had him surrounded in the woods, yet all the while he was cunningly but securely concealed in the new prison vaults, where the prisoners, it seems, have had free access and sometimes have held grand jubilees

The officers of the prison went through the farce of sitting above the very spot where Shultz lay hid, and talked over the matter of his capture, and it is fair to presume that when he finally became ready to give up his possession of the premises he went away fully informed of their plans and suggestions Was there ever before in the annals of prison discipline such a farce enacted as this miserable one of permitting convicts to secrete themselves within the prison bounds, and run away at leisure when night affords the mantle of secrecy and protection? And was there ever before a Superintendent credulous enough to believe that a man shackled down with twenty pounds of iron, could fly over the palisades and into the woods? We think not.

The fact has become apparent to every one else, and should be by this time to the Executive, that a change is needed in the management of the State Prison The position should be filled by a competent business man one possessing a comprehensive and controlling mind, man enough not to be scared by a runaway mule, and possessing fully the attributes of a gentleman. It is a very unhealthy state of affairs when every partisan bully can dictate his own terms and demand office as the price of his success in perpetrating political rascality It is too often the case in politics, and always leads to demoralization and the injury of the public service We feel like trying, in this connection, to persuade the present incumbent that his duty to himself, the Executive and the State, requires a speedy resignation, but we doubt if he has the good sense to act on his own convictions and rid himself of his official position at the expense of his personal vanity

It is said that Schultz stopped a man on Saturday night near Gervais, Marion county, and made a forced exchange of clothes. Also that Hackney was captured near Belpassi on Sunday

Gen Jubal A. Early has been given a cane by some Lynchburg ladies, and in his letter of acknowledgment says that it was a matter of very great gratification to him that he had it in his power to be instrumental in saving from the ruthless hand of the invader that city where so many of his personal friends reside and that he only regrets that his poor services, along with those of others who were defending the same cause, were not able to save the whole South from the disasters which befell her.

The London Times of the 24th ult, expresses the opinion that the settlement of the question of the Alabama claims is honorable to England, and that the object to both England and America is realized Though the treaty represents no perfect compromise, it is still acceptable for the sake of peace and both countries have already practically ratified the result of the labors of the commission

SAGE BRUSH HAIR TONIC AND CURE FOR BALDNESS

The Best Tonic Dressing for the Hair Ever Offered to the Public.

ELKO NEV

The Virtues of California and Nevada Sage Brush

A RANGE WHERE SAGE BRUSH GROWS ABUNDANT is the first thing sought after by persons engaged in Stock raising on account of its fattening properties Meat fattened upon it, possesses a finer flavor, and retains more of the natural juices, than that fed upon the grasses of the country A chemical analysis of Sage shows it to contain about eighty five per cent of nutritious matter such as go to make fat, etc But it is not alone in regard to its great virtues as food for stock that we propose to speak; but in these days of humbuggery, Quack Medicines, etc., any article that will supplant the many nostrums that are of no earthly use by giving the needy a cheap, safe and certain article for the same purpose is at least a saving to the community in that direction We allude to its HAIR RESTORING qualities For this purpose alone it so far surpasses the preparations usually found in Drug Stores as to make them utterly valueless compared with the really restorative qualities it possesses; and will accomplish more in restoring bald heads fastening falling hair, renovating and giving healthy action to the scalp than a whole store of the usual remedies advertised for that purpose Hundreds now in Nevada can testify to this fact and a trial will convince any doubting that what we say of it in this respect will be borne out by results if he will give it a fair trial. The man who first brings the Sage Brush before the public as a Hair Restorative will not only drive every other preparation for that purpose out of the market but will secure for himself a colossal fortune —Elko Independent, Jan 28th 1871

TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 13, 1871.

CITY.

NEWS FROM NORWAY.—Mr. Hanson, of this city, who has, within the past year or two, done much, by correspondence with the newspapers of Norway and other parts of Northern Europe, to induce a tide of emigration from those countries to Oregon, has translated the following letter just received and allows us to publish it. It gives something of what the prevailing feeling is in Norway about emigrating to this country, and what has been Mr. Hanson's agency in creating it:

ROMSDAL, NORWAY, May 10, 1871.

[illegible] EDITOR: Your letters of March 27th and April 7th I have received, and I am happy to say that the people are getting more and more convinced of the superiority of Oregon to that of the Eastern States, where the Scandinavians generally establish their settlements. Your article, which I found, April 6th, myself and Judge W. have thoroughly examined and found it to be a very able article. I did, therefore, send it to [illegible], a paper of great importance among the laboring class of Norway. I have [illegible] recommended it to the different editors, and to use my name in connection with it, it being a commendable object. I will soon [illegible] that your efforts in obtaining an [illegible] from Norway have not been made [illegible]. As a correspondent for the Morgenbladet, the principal news of Norway,—I will find occasion to turn the attention of our people at large towards this new current of emigration, that I never doubt but will, by your efforts, turn in your direction. If there is anything I can be of service to you by such as getting all your articles published, it will cause me a great pleasure.

Yours truly,
OTTO T. KROHG,
Pastor of Romsdal, Norway.

We, the undersigned, know the above translation to be correct.

L. C. HENDRICKSEN & CO.

HOW HOT IT HAS BEEN.—Everybody seems to labor under the impression that the last three days—Saturday, Sunday and Monday—were rather warm. It may be stated as a matter of fact there was some reason for entertaining such an impression. There was not, however, the same unanimity of belief as to the exact degree of heat which our puffing and blowing citizens were enduring. Some didn't believe the thermometer [illegible] in the shade, while others were certain that it was 120, at least, [illegible]. This diversity of opinion being [illegible] to serious distractions and doubts, we concluded to visit the official [illegible] and take its depositions—and this is what it said: On Saturday, at 2 P. M., 90°, and a little later, about 91½°. [illegible] at 3 P. M., 90°, after which it began to get cooler. Yesterday, Monday, at 12 M. 81°, and at 3 P. M. only 82°, the [illegible] gently down through the rest of the [illegible]. These have been three remarkable days for the season of the year, and [illegible] excessive contrast with the late [illegible], they were more than ordinarily [illegible]. One of the most fortunate circumstances connected with this "heated term" [illegible] the days coming one at a time. Only [illegible] if three such days coming together—two [illegible] sixty-one degrees! We ought to [illegible]ly thankful that we have escaped [illegible].

[illegible] CAUGHT.—We learn that Hackney, [illegible] of Shultz in the late escapade from [illegible], was captured Sunday morning [illegible] by a farmer who persuaded him with a shot gun to give up his contemplated trip [illegible] and to return to the outstretched [illegible] William. He was sent up on [illegible] day. We hear two or three stories [illegible] his account of himself and Shultz—[illegible] to the effect that he had not met that [illegible] the prison walls; another, that he [illegible] clothes secreted outside, [illegible] his prison suit. After they got [illegible] the woods toward French Prairie, [illegible] swapped suits with him, [illegible] hied himself away to where the wood-[illegible], leaving Hackney to mourn the loss [illegible] good clothes, and to be detected by the first [illegible] which should light upon his convict [illegible]. Perhaps neither of these stories are [illegible] but it seems to be a fact that Hackney is [illegible] Shultz still roams abroad.

[illegible] DEATH.—Last evening's Bulletin has [illegible]: "One of the leading and most [illegible] and respected citizens of our sister [illegible], Mr. Charles Pope, of Oregon City, died at [illegible] in that place last evening [Sunday] [illegible] but painful illness, from constipation [illegible]. His illness was of four days' [illegible]. Mr. Pope had reached nearly his [illegible] and ten," being sixty-five years of [illegible]. He was the father of C. W. [illegible] of the steamer Senator; T. A. Pope, [illegible] on the P. T. Co's dock in this city, [illegible] H. Pope, merchant of Oregon City. Mrs. Geo. Steel, of this city, is [illegible] of deceased, and Mrs. Geo. A. [illegible] is his sister. Mr. Pope emigrated to [illegible] 1851, and with the exception of three [illegible], has resided here since. His death [illegible] deplored. The funeral will take [illegible] row, we understand."

[illegible] AT MAST HEAD.—The steamer Annie [illegible] up from below yesterday, with a [illegible] lashed to the top of her forward flag [illegible] to signify that she either had or would [illegible] river. The idea of the broom is not an [illegible] one. A Dutch Admiral, by name Von [illegible] went against the English fleet, carrying [illegible] at mast head, to signify to all beholders that he would clear the English out of [illegible] even as a housewife would sweep [illegible] and bugs from out her favorite garden. Von Tromp, however, came back a badly [illegible], with the English hard after him. [illegible] the Captain of the Annie has not like[illegible] bragged too soon.

[illegible] READY FOR OCCUPANCY.—The rail[illegible] ship offices at the foot of F street [illegible] for occupation by the last of the week. The building, which is fifty feet [illegible] two stories high, is conveniently [illegible] offices and rooms for the accommodation of the several people who have to do with [illegible] of the railroad and the steamships. The building, a handsome edifice, has been put up in very quick time by Mr. Goodnough, one of the most thorough-going contractors [illegible] city. It is an ornament to that portion of the city.

[illegible] OF THE GEO. S. WRIGHT.—The N. P. T. Co.'s steamship Geo. S. Wright sailed at 7 o'clock last evening for San Juan, Nanaimo and Sitka. The following is a manifest of her freight: For San Juan, 58 cases Quartermaster's stores. For Sitka, 15 bags wheat, 1 box and 4 [illegible] stores, 40 sks middlings, 4 bales tobacco, 2 bbls sugar, 1 box currants, 2 cs olive oil, [illegible] raisins, 1 cs coffee, 7 kegs shot, 2 bbls [illegible] 1 pkg dried beef, 1 box eggs, 12 pkgs [illegible] 1 cs pilot bread, 2 bags feathers, 5 gunnies [illegible] 1 keg butter.

MUSIC ON THE PLAZA.—Prof. Yost informs us that next week the Portland Band will commence playing twice a week, in the evening, at the Plaza. Our citizens will be glad to hear this. In a short time this band will make an effort to procure a uniform and a set of new instruments, and it is to be hoped the liberal citizens of Portland will assist them.

THE FALKINBURG TO SAIL.—The barkentine Jane A. Falkinburg, Cathcart Master, will leave this morning with a part cargo of flour, [illegible] and bran, for Honolulu. She will take on the balance of a full cargo—piles, lumber and [illegible] at various points below, and will be off, probably this week, for the Sandwich Islands.

YACHT CLUB MEETING.—The Portland Yacht Club will hold a meeting next Saturday evening to take measures in conjunction with the Rowing Club for exercises on the river on the Fourth of July.

BRIDGE WORK BEGUN.—Work was commenced [illegible] day on the railroad bridges in the upper end of the city. We understand that this and other work on the road will soon be pushed with vigor.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

Beck & Waldman are offering Summer Suits, Fancy Goods and everything desired for wear at very low prices. See their advertisement.

REMOVAL.—Dr. B. R. Freeland, dentist, has removed his office to No. 123 First street, over [illegible]'s drug store, where he will be happy to see his old patrons and as many new ones as may give him a call.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Mr. Ames, the man who was shot at East Portland, Saturday, is improving.

Quite a number of delegates and visitors to the Grand Lodge I. O. G. T., at Salem, went up yesterday, from this city.

Mr. Meagher, whose boy was bitten by a dog on Saturday, has commenced legal proceedings against the owner of the dog.

The U. S. District court met yesterday, morning, but adjourned without transacting any business.

The Vieuxtemps Brothers are organizing some singing classes in Clackamas county, but will continue to give one lesson a week in this city.

The Washington Guard desire to have it understood that they will not permit any disreputable characters to take passage on their picnic excursion.

There were an unusual number of drunks and fightingers up before the Police Judge yesterday morning, and the fines aggregate a pretty round sum.

There was a very full attendance at the opening of the Circuit Court yesterday morning—attorneys, suitors, jurors, witnesses and idlers.

The house of the steamer Nez Perce Chief was set over yesterday, on to the new hull of the A. Hayward, at the Boneyard.

The North Portland saw mill, after a suspension of work for a couple of weeks, started up again yesterday.

Trains on the O. & C. R. R., we learn, will commence running to Harrisburg on next Sunday. A change in the time table and mail arrangements will likely be made on that day.

The Oriflamme will sail from San Francisco for this port to-day.

Strawberries were down to 20 cents a box yesterday.

Capt. Geo. Pease, of the Alert, has taken up his quarters at Oregon City for the present.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORATORIO OF ESTHER.—Prof. McGibeny is working indefatigably, to bring forward to perfection, the preparations for presenting the oratorio of Esther, on the 27th of the present month. The performance will commence at Oro Fino Theater on the evening of the 27th, and will be continued through the evenings of the 28th and July 1st. The Professor will have not only his own very large class, but a considerable number of volunteers, among whom are several members of the Philharmonic Society.

ROLLER SKATING.—The rink is constantly well patronized, and the proprietors deserve the liberal success which they are receiving. They have not only furnished a fine hall, but they conduct the place in such excellent manner as to render it an entirely unexceptionable place of amusement. To-night, an additional attraction will be added: Ice cream and soda. Nothing could be more grateful to the patrons than this new feature.

WASHINGTON GUARD'S PICNIC.—The Washington Guard will meet at their armory at half past 7 this morning for parade. The first boat will leave the P. T. Co's wharf at 9 o'clock, and the second at 11 o'clock A. M. The return will be at 5 o'clock P. M.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The hot weather has brought out the strawberries in great profusion and of luscious flavor. Everybody goes now for strawberries and cream. The ladies of the Unitarian Society appreciating this fact have arranged for a strawberry and icecream festival this evening at Armory Hall. Admission only 25 cents.

TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.

The next regular session of the Multnomah County Teachers' Institute will be held at the Central School building, Portland, beginning on Friday June 30th, at 9 A. M., and continuing two days.

Public meetings will be held on the evenings of Friday and Saturday.

The quarterly examination of teachers will be held in connection with the institute: All teachers and the public generally are invited to attend.

THE WIFE, both before and after she has become a matron, will find PLANTATION BITTERS literally a present help in time of trouble; and under no circumstances or condition can it prove otherwise than beneficial. During nursing it may be taken as an invigorant, with great advantage both to mother and infant; and, when maternal anxiety is awakened by the failing appetite, [illegible] languor and general indisposition of a delicate daughter, there is no tonic or alterative which will work such a rapid and [illegible] change in the condition of the fair invalid as PLANTATION BITTERS. For the morning lassitude and depression of spirits, caused by late hours and what is called fashionable dissipation, there is nothing comparable to this famous vegetable restorative.

Let Common Sense Decide.

What is the rational procedure in cases of general debility and nervous prostration? Does not reason tell us that judicious stimulation is required? To resort to violent purgation in such a case is as absurd as it would be to bleed a starving man. Yet it is done every day. Yes, this stupid and unphilosophical practice is continued in the teeth of the great fact that physical weakness, with all the nervous disturbances that accompany it, is more certainly and rapidly relieved by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters than by any other medicine at present known. It is true that general debility is often attended with torpidity or irregularity of the bowels, and that this symptom must not be overlooked. But while the discharge of the waste matter of the system is expedited or regulated, its vigor must be recruited. The Bitters do both. They combine aperient and antibilious properties, with extraordinary tonic power. Even while removing obstructions from the bowels, they tone and invigorate those organs. Through the stomach, upon which the great vegetable specific acts directly, it gives a healthy and permanent impetus to every enfeebled function. Digestion is facilitated, the faltering circulation regulated, the blood reinforced with a new accession of the alimentary principles, the nerves braced, and all the dormant powers of the system roused into healthy action; not spasmodically, as would be the case if a mere stimulant were administered, but for a continuance. It is in this way that such extraordinary changes are wrought in the condition of the feeble, emaciated and nervous invalids by the use of this wonderful corrective, alterative and tonic. Let common sense decide between such a preparation and a prostrating cathartic supplemented by poisonous astringent like strychnine or quinia.

Stock Books Open.

THE UNDERSIGNED HAVING BEEN APPOINTED by the incorporators of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad Company to open books and receive subscriptions to the capital stock of said company, does hereby declare such books now open for subscription at his office in this city.

This is done now, because it was believed that the citizens of Oregon and especially of Portland, and those along the line of the proposed road would desire to take sufficient stock, at least to be an endorsement of the enterprise, and enable them to exert an influence in its management.

A certain proportion of the Directors are required to be residents of the State, who must first become stockholders before Directors. While the invitation to subscribe thereto is cordial, I will visit Eastern Oregon and Idaho during the month of July to give the citizens there an opportunity of engaging with us in the good cause.

THE HOLLIDAY-ELLIOTT SUIT.

APPLICATION BY ELLIOT FOR LEAVE TO FILE AN AMENDED ANSWER IN THE SUIT BROUGHT BY HOLLADAY AND EMMET TO DISSOLVE PARTNERSHIP. THE APPLICATION DENIED. OPINION BY JUDGE UPTON.

MULTNOMAH CIRCUIT, June 8, '71.

Ben. Holladay & C. T. Emmet vs S. G. Elliott et al.

This is a suit for a dissolution of partnership and the answer filed consists of denials of the allegations of the complainants.

The defendant, S. G. Elliott, moves the Circuit Judge at Chambers, for an order granting leave to file an amended answer in the nature of a cross-bill. Mitchell & Dolph for the plaintiff in opposition to the motion, makes the following points of objection:

1st. The Judge at Chambers is not authorized to hear the motion.

2d. The case is referred and an amendment cannot be regularly ordered unless the case is ordered into court.

3d. The statute does not authorize such an amendment after the trial has commenced.

4th. All the material matters now proposed to be set up were known to the defendant when the answer was filed, or at least, before the case was referred, and the motion comes too late.

5th. The same matters are already set up in [illegible] suits pending between the same parties, [illegible] in one suit in this court, in one suit in the United States Circuit Court for the District of Oregon, and in one suit in the 15th District Court [illegible] the State of California.

Messrs. Patterson, Felton and Judge Shattuck, [illegible] defendant, claim that the circumstances [illegible] the application and excuse the delay. The principal grounds being,

1st. The leading facts upon which the right [illegible] affirmative relief is based, came to the knowledge of the defendant recently.

2d. The defendant was absent from the State when the answer was filed.

3d. The defendant was, until recently, laboring under too great financial embarrassment to be able to secure the services of counsel.

In order to arrive at a clear understanding of the facts upon which counsel rest their arguments, I have attempted to arrange the more prominent of them in the order of their respective dates.

It seems that the plaintiff, Emmett and the defendant [illegible] were acquaintances, or at least, had business relations, as early as 1866. On the [illegible] of September of that year, they joined with others in a written proposition to certain citizens of Oregon, in regard to securing stock in a railroad corporation to be organized in this State.

On the 20 of March, 1867, Albert J. Cook made Mr. Elliott his attorney in fact.

[illegible] of April, 1867, The Oregon Central Railroad Co. was incorporated, and on the same [illegible] the corporation contracted with A. J. Co[illegible] [illegible] construction by [illegible]

On the 30 of May [illegible] A. J. Cook made a written assignment [illegible] contract to the defendant Elliott.

[illegible] of May [illegible] The Oregon Central Railroad Co. contracted with a firm called A. J. Cook & Co. that the firm would construct 210 miles of railroad. In each case it was provided that the contractor should receive, as compensation certain bonds to be secured by mortgage on the proposed railroad. And in the second contract it was provided that the contractor should also receive certain stock of The Oregon Central Railroad Co.

Some of the bonds were delivered by The Oregon Central Railroad Co., to A. J. Cook & Co. On the 19th of September, 1868, the plaintiffs and the defendant Elliott, formed a partnership under the firm name of Ben. Holladay & Co., for the purpose of equipping and operating one or more railroads in the State of Oregon, and the States and Territories adjacent thereto. This firm, at its formation succeeded to the contracts, and the assets of A. J. Cook & Co. and entered upon the work of building the line of railroad. The defendant, Elliott being Superintendent of Construction, by the terms of the contract of partnership. On the [illegible] of October, 1868, the Legislature of Oregon designated The Oregon Central Railroad Co. as the Company entitled to certain lands granted by Congress. On the 4th of [illegible] the plaintiff Holladay, employed a new Superintendent, and gave Mr. Elliott notice that Elliott was discharged—Mr. Holladay claiming in this suit that Mr. Elliott had been guilty of fraud in procuring the formation of the partnership firm of Ben. Holladay & Co.; that he was incompetent to superintend the work, and that he had been guilty of breach of the contract of [illegible]; Mr. Holladay claiming to act in conjunction with Mr. Emmett assumed control of the work of constructing the railroad. On the [illegible], 1869, Mr. Holladay published a notice in the [illegible] of Ben. Holladay & Co. that Mr. Elliott was not authorized to make contracts on [illegible] of Ben. Holladay & Co.

About this time, Mr. Elliott commenced a proceeding in this court against the plaintiffs which was dismissed on his motion, on December 20th, 1869.

On No[illegible] 4th, 1869, the plaintiffs commenced this suit, and the amended complaint was filed on the following day.

About this time Mr. Elliott left the State of Oregon, not being served with process, but knowing of the pendency of the suit.

On Nov. 23 1869, publication of the summons in the case was made. About this time Mr. Holladay, [illegible] his own notes, or those of himself and friends, or those of Ben Holladay & Co., borrowed about 800,000, to $1,000,000, pledging the bonds of the Oregon Central Railroad Co., which had been obtained of A. J. Cook & Co. as collateral security, out of which he applied enough to his own private account to satisfy all the advances he had made in the business of Ben Holladay & Co.

December 20th, 1869, Mr. Elliott, on his own motion, dismissed his proceedings in this court against Holladay and Emmett.

On Feb. [illegible], 1870, the plaintiffs filed in this cause proof of service of summons, by publication, on the defendant Elliott.

On March 14th, 1870, the defendant Elliott filed his answer in this cause.

[illegible] March 16th, 1870, a corporation was formed under the name of the Oregon and California R. R. Co.

On March 26th, 1870, the Directors of the Oregon and California Railroad Company passed a resolution proposing to purchase from the Oregon Central R. R. Co. all its property; and Mr. Holladay, as President of the first named company, communicated the proposition to the latter company.

On March 29th, 1870, the Oregon Central R. R. Co. made and delivered a writing, under seal, purporting to convey all its property to the Oregon and California R. R. Co.

On A[illegible] 11th, 1870, the replication was filed in this cause.

On April 15th, 1870, the Oregon and California R. R. Co. mortgaged its road to Trustees, to secure its bonds to the amount of $30,000 per mile. And at the same time executed as further security a deed of trust conveying its lands to the same Trustees.

About this time, or before, the defendant Holladay made arrangements to take up the obligations given for the $800,000 or $1,000,000, before mentioned, and to withdraw the bonds of the Oregon Central R. R. Co.; and he surrendered the said bonds to that company to be cancelled, or otherwise disposed of. And about this time the Oregon and California R. R. Co., Holladay being President and owning a majority of its stock, sold $1,750,000 of its bonds at 60 cents on the dollar, obtained a portion of the proceeds, and made arrangements to receive more from time to time.

On June 24th, 1870, Mr. Elliott commenced a [illegible] in this court against these plaintiffs charging them with confederating together, in violation of [illegible] partnership articles of the firm of Ben Holladay & Co., for the purpose of rendering valueless [illegible] interest in said firm, estimating his interest at [illegible],000. And charging them with having for [illegible] purpose deposed him from his position as Superintendent, assumed the control of the affairs and assets of Ben Holladay & Co., cancelled the contract for construction, and conspired to dissolve the old company and to form a new one, and with having transferred the interest of the [illegible] Elliott to the new company, and with threatening to sell the bonds of the new company.

[illegible] [illegible]th, 1870, a motion was made in the last named cause to make the complaint more specific.

[illegible] November 23d, 1870, the parties stipulated in this cause that each should have six months [illegible] to take evidence.

In December, 1870, Mr. Elliott commenced a [illegible] in the 15th District Court of the State of California in relation to the same subject matter, and including these plaintiffs as defendants, which suit is pending.

On the — of — 187- the cause was by consent referred for trial of all the issues.

In May, 1871, a suit was commenced by Mr. Elliott in the United States Circuit Court for the District of Oregon, making the Oregon Central R. R. Co. and the Oregon and California R. R. Co. defendants.

Several matters touching the proceedings in this cause, and occurring since the 17th of May, 1871, have been alluded to.

The six months in which to take testimony alluded to in the stipulation, expired on the 23d of May, 1871, but by consent, or by order of the referee, the time has been prolonged, and the taking of testimony is not fully at an end.

The plaintiffs had introduced their evidence and rested, before this motion was made.

The defendant and two of his counsel were at San Francisco, expecting to leave by the steamer advertised to leave on the 17th day of May, but they were unexpectedly delayed, and did not arrive here until the plaintiffs had closed their testimony, about the —of May.

The affidavits and exhibits filed upon the hearing of this motion, show in detail the mode in which the transactions above referred to were effected.

OPINION.

With this understanding of the facts I have considered the reasons presented for and against the motion to amend.

The question whether this motion can be heard at Chambers becomes unimportant since the term has commenced and the Court is now in session.

The point that the referee should first be required to report the case into Court is a question of practice that I do not find decided upon authority, and I pass it upon similar grounds.

If the motion depends upon either or both of these grounds, upon its being overruled the application can be immediately made in form.

Passing for the present, also, the question whether the application is within the letter of ss. 94 to 104 of the Code, I propose to consider first to what extent the amendment presents matter occurring since the former answer, and material facts that have come to the knowledge of the defendant since he commenced his suit on the 24th of June last. One of the objects sought in this suit, as disclosed by the complaint, and as proposed by the amendment, is an accounting.

Of course the gist of the controversy is the determination of the issues in regard to breach of the contract of partnership, but an accounting, although secondary, is one of the objects.

What are the facts that entitle a party to an accounting?

If either of the partners, being without fault, can show that his adversary has violated the terms of the partnership contract, and abused the trust with which as a partner he was clothed, and that he has partnership assets that he has not accounted for, that showing entitles him to an accounting.

It is only necessary for a party, whether plaintiff or defendant, to state the facts that constitute his course of action or defense. (15 Cal. 145, 411.) He is not required to state the evidence that proves those facts. Nor is it necessary, to entitle him to an accounting and to the benefits of the accounting, that he should set out a detailed history of his adversary's dealings.

Whether we are examining the facts actually occurring since the last answer, or considering those that are newly discovered, we are confined to such as it is necessary to plead.

Those that are in this sense, new, as distinguished from newly discovered, are such as occurred after March 14th, 1870.

There is a clear distinction between a proposition to file a supplementary answer, to enable a party to obtain a more full and adequate remedy, or to set up as a distinct defense some new and distinct occurrence that of itself amounts to a defense or cause of suit, and a proposition to set up a defense or cause of suit that was in existence at the time of the former answer. This distinction is important, and should not be overlooked if we would arrive at correct conclusions.

Section 105 of the Code provides for cases of the former class, and the sections from 94 to 104 apply to the latter. These provisions of the Code are declaratory of the law as it existed before the Code was enacted, and I think the same rules would be in force if the subject had not been mentioned in the Code. Facts of the former class, when material and necessary to the proper determination of the case already made by the pleadings, are admissible when presented properly, from the bare circumstance of the facts having transpired since the party had an opportunity to plead. But defenses or causes of suit of the latter class, the Court has no right to admit unless the neglect or delay is shown to be excusable.

The real question to be determined, is whether the defendant ought to be allowed, now, to file an answer setting up affirmative allegations in the nature of a cross bill. Under the facts presented upon this motion I have no hesitation in drawing a line of distinction between those facts that had come to the defendant's knowledge at the time he filed his complaint, June 24th, 1870, and those that have been disclosed in the course of taking depositions during the last month.

If this amendment is a proposition to set up a defense that was in existence at the time of the former answer, it of course devolves on the defendant to show a reasonable excuse for the delay. And I think there is no doubt but that if it was in existence, and known to the defendant, as early as June 24th, 1870, the intervening time and the action since taken in the case places him in the same attitude.

If the distinction first mentioned is sound, those subsequent transactions, the proof of which would only tend to give a more adequate remedy but which are not necessary to constitute the defendant's cause of suit, ought not to determine the question whether the delay in setting up the main subject-matter of the cross-suit is excusable.

By those facts that cannot be weighed in determining whether the delay is excusable, I allude to the details of the mode of forming the new railroad company and attempting to dissolve or abolish the old one; and the various transfers of stocks, bonds and lands, that have been made, together with the dealings of the plaintiff with third parties that have transpired since surrendering the construction contracts.

I suppose all that can be claimed from these facts, is that proof of them will afford more full and perfect means of relief, if it results that the defendant is entitled to relief. But the defendant's case—that is, the question whether he is entitled to relief, rests entirely on facts occurring prior to those.

For the purpose of determining whether the delay is excusable, the facts are to be considered as they were developed to the defendant when on June 24th he resolved to claim affirmative relief in an original suit, in place of setting up the same facts in this suit.

The matters alleged may be reduced to three classes:

The defendant's want of knowledge of some of the important facts.

His absence from the State and the secrecy and artifice of the plaintiffs.

And his want of means and consequent inability to secure the aid of counsel.

There are very many matters mentioned in the exhibits and unknown to Mr. Elliott until recently, which are claimed in argument as being facts necessary to the defendant's claim of affirmative relief. Many of them are matters of detail not necessary to be mentioned in the pleadings, although material as evidence. Others go to show what kind or extent of relief should be had, if the defense is maintained. But of some, it is claimed, a knowledge was indispensable. Prominent among these, is the circumstance that about the time of the commencement of this suit, or perhaps before, Mr. Holladay or the firm of Ben Holladay & Co. obtained $800,000 or $1,000,000 by means of railroad bonds in the hands of the firm, out of which Holladay was reimbursed for all the advances he had made to Ben Holladay & Co.

If I correctly understand the position taken, it is that if Mr. Elliott had known that fact, he would have had reason to know or believe that his interests in the firm of Ben Holladay & Co. were greatly enhanced in value, and that upon an accounting, there would have been a large balance in his favor, and that that knowledge would have been a reason for applying for affirmative relief, that he would then have acted upon. The force of this discovery, as an excuse for not setting up an affirmative defense, must rest on the assumption that Mr. Elliott for want of this knowledge, was induced to believe that his interest in the firm of Ben Holladay & Co. was of little value; and induced for a time to abandon the idea of seeking to retain it to obtain affirmative relief. His right to an accounting, and to his distributive share of the assets, or his right to be reinstated, did not depend on the questions whether the firm owed Mr. Holladay or whether he was indebted to the firm. And I cannot see that a want of this knowledge was a reason for not setting up an affirmative answer or cross bill, unless the defendant was made to believe his interest was not of sufficient value to warrant that course. But counsel have not taken the position, and do not suggest that he has ever thought of such abandonment of the assets, and of course Mr. Elliott could not claim that he was misled or deceived so as to be of such opinion for any considerable time, for in his complaint of June 24th, he places a very considerable estimate on his interest in the firm, and states his damages at $2,000,000.

It is not necessary to go into the subject whether the assets of Ben Holladay & Co. are to be considered greatly increased by the firm having obtained cash to be expended in their enterprise, through a pledge of bonds held by them, together with the note of one of the firm, or of the whole firm. And as to the propriety of the act of obtaining the money, if it was fairly obtained for the business of the firm, including reimbursing individual members for advances made by them, it would be a fruitless attempt at self-deception, for the court or the parties to ignore the fact that in all such cases, the bonds are made by the corporation and obtained by contractors, expressly for the purpose of raising money by pledging or by selling the bonds. It cannot be doubted Mr. Elliott contemplated some similar transaction if the members of the firm had continued to co-operate; and he probably would have approved of this if no dispute had occurred between the members of the firm. This is not a matter like that of breaking up the partnership, that goes to gist of the case.

It may be a very important fact on the question of the kind or amount of relief to which the defendant may be found entitled, but at the most it is a mere transfer of one kind of assets into another kind, and I can not think ignorance of it goes far as an excuse for the delay in offering the proposed cross bill.

An inspection of the complaint filed by Mr. Elliott will disclose that Mr. Elliott had such knowledge as enabled his counsel to draft a sufficient pleading to admit this fact in evidence, without its being necessary he should know of this particular transaction.

Many of these facts, relied on as newly discovered, are treated in practice as but evidence, not required to be set forth in the pleadings. I can not recall one of the circumstances occurring prior to the filing of Mr. Elliott's complaint in June last, but could be introduced in evidence under the allegations of that complaint. Or if the same allegations of fact had been set forth as an answer in this case, I think there are none of the pertinent facts set up in the exhibits, as occurring prior to that time that would be admissible under the proposed amended answer, and not admissible under the allegations supposed.

Whether we take the literal reading of the code, or pursue the practice that formerly prevailed in courts of chancery, the rule is that: "A general statement of the matter of fact is sufficient, and it is not necessary to charge minutely all the circumstances which may conduce to prove the general charge, for these circumstances are matters of evidence, which need not be charged in order to let them in as proofs." Story, Eq. Pl., s. 28.

In that complaint the defendant set up the attempt to form a new railroad company, and to dissolve the old one, the cancelling of the construction contracts, and the issuing of bonds by the new company and threatening to sell them.

He thus laid the foundation for evidence of all the transactions of the parties that are pertinent up to the sale of the bonds of the Oregon and California Railroad Company. If the same allegations contained in Mr. Elliott's complaint had been set forth in the answer the proposition to add a supplemental answer would have been very different from that which is now made.

The absence of Mr. Elliott can hardly be urged; he was here and verified his complaint in June, 1870; and what he has urged as unfair dealing, has all transpired within a month past, and it is not necessary for me to refer further to the controverted statements of the parties on that matter.

A third ground of excuse is, that the defendant's means had become exhausted, so that he was unable to meet the expenses of the litigation, and that it has been caused in whole or in part by the conduct of the plaintiff.

As to the other expenses, aside from that of employing counsel, there are circumstances tending to support the defendant's position, which would certainly be deserving of great consideration if the necessity of meeting such other expenses had caused the delay, but that is not claimed.

So far as relates to the defendant's inability to employ counsel, the record of the court and the theory of the law are conclusively against this excuse. The records of the court show that the defendant had the fortune to secure the services of counsel in time for all the purposes of the case, and the court can not but know that they are men able and skilled in their profession. And the law will not tolerate the position that counsel can or will place themselves on the record as such, and afterwards permit the excuse here urged to be true in point of fact.

If this motion had been made before the case was referred, or even before the parties commenced taking evidence, the proposition would present less difficulty.

It was said in argument that the defendant's request was merely asking to be heard, and the subject was treated, to some extent, as if denying this motion was equivalent to turning the defendant out of court without a hearing. But this is not the case. If the defendant is entitled to affirmative relief, he can still proceed to obtain it. And I have reason to suppose that in the earlier proceedings in this case, it was the opinion of counsel that, that was the safer or better course for the defendant. And I certainly am no way confident but that it is more economical and better for all parties to first try the issues and determine the questions that form the gist of the controversy, that is, the right and the wrong of the attempt to dissolve the firm of Ben. Holladay & Co., before going into the extensive investigations suggested in the proposed amendment.

I have not thought it necessary to investigate the questions raised as to the pendency of other suits, and the bearing that they should have on this application.

Granting this motion would necessarily cause more or less delay, would probably necessitate a re-examination of witnesses to some extent; and would put it in the power of either party to cause as much delay as would result ordinarily from granting a continuance. If we compare the defendant's showing on the subject of diligence, or of excusing the want of it, with that which is required to procure a continuance, I think it lacks much of bearing that test.

I do not think the facts justify granting the motion.

OREGON RHEUMATIC CURE!

HISTORY.

THIS REMEDY IS COMPOSED OF THE ACTIVE principle of the Unk Weed, Eng.—Thaspium Cordatum Origanius, Lat.—Indigenous to Oregon. Grows most abundantly and perfectly in Washington county.

It is the most sure and speedy cure for RHEUMATISM, RHEUMATIC GOUT AND RHEUMATIC PAINS, of all kinds that was ever introduced in the Materia Medica.
